Puzzle

Why can a force with the form

$$F = k \frac{s_1 s_2^3}{r^4},$$

where s^1, s^2 are the masses (or charges) of two particles, r is their separation, and k is a constant, not exist in nature?

Hint: Use Newton's Third Law. . .